Ancient Jewish Meditation Literature

What are your favorite literary genres?

Why are those your favorite stories? What is unique about them?

Jewish meditation literature is the broad category that most of scripture falls under. Knowing that every detail that is given matters, how does that help you understand how to approach the Bible? How might it get in the way?

If questions and ambiguities are intentional on the behalf of the writers, how might you find ways to embrace asking more questions about the Bible?

How does the connection of Jesus to the ancient stories through genealogies help you understand the Bible as one big story?

How might slowing down and reading scripture help you contemplate the Bible more deeply?
